H. C. Folger Buys Burdett - Coutts Shakespeare Folio

Standard Oil Man Acquires
Famous Daniel Copy and

Its Casket.

The famous Daniel copy of the first follo of Shakespeare, recognized as the primus inter pares copy, bought by the Rosenbach company of this city on May 16 at the sale of the library of the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts at Southby's in London, has been sold to Henry C. Folger, president of the Standard Oil Company of New York.

Included in the purchase is the casket made to contain the volume. This exceedingly precious part of the treasure is associated with a bit of near tragedy. It was given to the then Miss Coutts by Queen Victoria in 1866 as an expression of appreciation that Miss Coutts's purchase of the folio had saved the treasure for England. It is made from the wood of Herne's oak in Windsor Forest.

When this folio sold to Miss Coutts

The sale was much discussed in the press on both sides of the Atlantic and the prophecy was made that it would sell some time for ten times that sum. The present sale exceeds the optimism of the prophets, leaving a margin of $1.479$.

During the years that have intervened since the Daniel sale was held in 1864 the folio has at no time been forgotten by followers of the rare book market and the death of the Baroness Burdett in the book which had for so long rested in her library. When it finally sold at auction for £8.600 the price was accepted by book men as a fair valuation, an attitude quite in contrast to the previous sale some sixty years before when it had sold for a tenth of that sum.

This steamship Majestle will deposit several returning theatrical celebrities on these shores to-day. They include J. J. Shubert, Irving Berlin and Hassard Short. Mr. Shubert has been abroad gathering plays for his firm. Mr. Berlin combined business with pleasure.

In addition to looking over most of the principal cities of Europe Mr. Berlin took time to develop new ideas and new tunes for the "Music Box Revue" of next season. While abroad he arranged with C. B. Cochran, London producer, for the presentation in England of the current show at the Music Box.

Mr. Short, who staged this revue and will put on its successor, brings back a number of novelties as well as new creations in costumes.

B. S. Moss, owner of the Moss circuit of theaters in New York, will arrive on the Majestic after six weeks abroad. During the years that have intervened since the Daniel sale was held in 1864 the folio has at no time been forgotten by followers of the rare book market and the death of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts immediately revived the interest in the book which had for so long rested in her library. When it finally sold at auction for £8.600 the price was accepted by book men as a fair valuation, an attitude quite in contrast to the previous sale some sixty years before when it had sold for a tenth of that sum.

This last purchase of Mr. Folger's adds another treasure to his already valuable Shakespeare collection. Several years ago he paid to the Rosenbach Company $100,000 for a unique collection of Shakespeare's plays published by Thomas Pavier in 1619. This collection is four years older than the first folio. The value of this rare edition is now placed at $150,000.
